

MBSTalk – Contributor Guidelines

Contribute Your Expertise to MBSTalk

MBSTalk is a digital health platform committed to sharing trustworthy, evidence-based, and practical medical knowledge with a wide audience. We welcome doctors and qualified healthcare professionals who are passionate about education, ethical communication, and improving health awareness to contribute their expertise to our platform.

Who Can Contribute

- Licensed medical doctors and registered healthcare professionals
- Specialists, general practitioners, and clinicians across medical fields
- Academicians, researchers, and practitioners with strong subject-matter expertise

What We Value in Our Contributors

- Accuracy & Integrity: Content must be medically accurate, evidence-based, and aligned with current clinical standards.
- Clear & Ethical Communication: Writing should be professional, patient-friendly, and free from sensationalism.
- Original Content: Submissions must be unpublished, plagiarism-free, and written exclusively for MBSTalk.
- Educational Purpose: Content should inform and educate, not promote specific products, brands, or services.
- Responsible Medical Writing: Avoid personal medical advice, respect patient privacy, and follow ethical guidelines.
- Collaborative Approach: Openness to editorial feedback, medical review, and reasonable revisions is expected.

Topics of Interest

- Clinical insights and simplified medical explainers
- Preventive medicine and public health awareness
- Mental health, emotional wellbeing, and behavioral health
- Lifestyle medicine and chronic disease management
- Emerging medical research, technologies, and innovations
- Patient education and general health awareness

Submission & Review Process

All submissions are reviewed by the MBSTalk editorial team for medical accuracy, clarity, relevance, and ethical compliance. We may suggest edits for readability, structure, or compliance with platform standards. Final publication decisions rest with the MBSTalk editorial team.

How to Get in Touch

While our contributor application form is currently under development, interested doctors and healthcare professionals can contact us directly.

Email: connect@mbstalk.com

Please include a brief introduction, your medical background, areas of expertise, and any writing samples (if available).

We look forward to collaborating with medical professionals who share our mission of making reliable health information accessible, responsible, and impactful.